

The Learning & Play Place

Home Daycare

Developing Independent Learning

Below are a few simple ways that you teach your child to develop independent learning and thinking.

Allowing them free hand: You may wish to allow your child to spend some time in your absence. This simple trick will help your child to learn that he or she can do work even in your absence. In addition, this method helps your child gain immense confidence in his or her innate abilities.

Allow them to read and memorize quietly to themselves: This technique will allow your child to comprehend and master the core of the subject. Increased comprehension is an extended version of independent learning and this skill is very important for professional success.

Allow your child to read and listen to stories by themselves: When you allow your child to recite stories and anecdotes, you are encouraging him or her to develop analytical and evaluation skills as well.

Allow your child to work in team environments: Another important life skill that will enable and empower your child to develop an ability to live among individuals with different minds and logic. Your child must learn to live in peace among different people in the society.

Allow your child to participate in debates and discussions: Classroom debates and discussions are very critical for your child because they can help him or her develop courage, self-belief, self-image and self-analysis.
Con't on pg 2

March 2020

Sun	Mo	Tue	We	Thu	Fri	Sat
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

Inside

Boosting Your Child's Imagination	1
March Calendar	1
Recommended Websites	1
Developing Independent Learning..con't	2
Homemade Finger-paints	2
Recommended Websites
Kids Bird Club from Bird Channel.com
All About Birds

IT'S EASY TO BE A GREAT PARENT!
Tell your children: "I love you, you are special to me."
Give them lots of hugs and kisses.

DEVELOPING INDEPENDANT LEARNING... (CON'T)

Allow them to develop their own ideas and expressions:

When you help your child to think and act on his or her own ideas, the first immediate benefit is the acquisition of focus and concentration. These two noble characters are very critical for reaching professional success.

Allow your child to learn drawing and painting:

Experts also believe that drawing and painting can help children develop imagination, logic and artistic skills. Experts also believe that one must be emotionally strong enough to face all unforeseen circumstances in life. Extended and independent learning must also focus on these positive characters.

Allow them to differentiate good from the bad:

You may wish to teach your children to know and understand good from the bad, average from the best and ordinary from great. These simple skills will also help your child go for an unqualified degree of success in whatever they do or achieve in their life.

Allow them to acquire the basic skills of accumulating knowledge:

Every person must possess the ability to research and gather information from different resources. This special skill will empower us to apply the gathered information to a myriad of scenarios. Help your child to accumulate and gather information from a local library. Provide them enough clues and exercises to collect information about a particular topic. Make library time a mandatory time and visit the local library at least once or twice in a month.

Once you introduce various learning activities, your next goal should focus at enabling your children to take responsibility for their own learning and actions.

HOMEMADE FINGER PAINTS

Ingredients:

Experiment and have fun making and using one or more of these paints.

1. Add and mix dry tempera or food coloring with one of the following:
2. Flour
3. Cornstarch
4. Liquid starch

Add water until mixture is about the consistency of yogurt.

